The Intersection of Art & Comfort

Exquisite upholstery & pure Aniline leather meets stunning, original tattoo work

REMARKABLE ARTISTRY

Our House Designs, in collaboration with Ping of Tattoos by Ping at Bodhi Joi Studio, created a stunning work of interactive art.

Combining over 37 years of custom upholstery experience with the phenomenal detail work of local tattoo artist, Ping; The resulting chair & ottoman are nothing short of a masterpiece.

Our 882 San Baranto chair and ottoman were selected for this collaboration for their comfort and charming designs.

Several countless hours of designing, testing, and planning and over 30 hours of meticulous tattooing went into these pieces.

The chair and ottoman were expertly draped in buttery soft, pure Aniline leathers - specifically selected by Ping to best suit the vision she had for this project.

The resulting pieces are a true celebration of craft and artistry.

IT TAKES A TEAM

OHD's team of 12 leather cutters, sewers, upholsterers, trimmers, finishers, spring up, and product developers made sure every detail of the collaboration was as perfect as possible.

With decades of knowledge & furniture making experience, our team knows a thing or two about creating one-of-a-kind works of art.

About the Artist | Ping Senesombath

"My goal is to share my love of art and tattoos through the creation of 'permanent, living, and mobile art galleries' curated for each individual."

Phinthone Senesombath, aka Ping, is a Laotian tattoo artist and a multi-medium disciplined, self-taught artist living and working in Hickory, North Carolina.

Phinthone has been creating art since her childhood. Throughout her life she has always worked in some form of art career. She has been tattooing since November 2018.

Phinthone is passionate about art and how it affects people. Tattooing is one of the ways for her to connect with individuals, to give them permanent art that is always with them. Seeing her clients ideas and having them come to life on skin takes a lot of trust. Learning about the client and what makes the design important to them makes Phinthone feel honored to be given the opportunity to make a difference in their life. She opened her private studio, Bodhi Joi Studio in 2022.
